One very old date. The other a very new number. Both represent great discoveries—Columbus 1492, America. Murray Hill 2127, Knickerbocker's new telephone number, represents the development of the "discovery" of artificial ice—a discovery that has added to the health, comfort and pleasure of Americans for more than a quarter of a century.

The Knickerbocker Ice Company began making ice in 1898. It now has 19 plants working winter and summer to meet New York's demand for absolutely pure ice. A telephone call to Murray Hill 2127 today means that regular Knickerbocker service starts tomorrow.

Low Rentals

More office rentals are being made to-day in the Grand Central Zone and in the Canadian Pacific Building than in any other section of the city.

The reason is—low rentals for more accessible location and lighter space.

The popularity of this section will inevitably raise rentals as market approaches. Renting now is an economy.

Small offices two outside windows. $1,200 and other desirable space.

HOTELS THREATENED IN NEW DRY MOVE

Yellowley Will Close Any Place on Second Violation of Law.

2 MORE AGENTS FIRED

Eight Dismissed Since Saturday by New State Enforcement Director.

ALL PERMITS EXAMINED

World Series Crowd Watched for Bootlegging Evidence—Drug Cases Under Fire.

Two more Federal prohibition agents who are accused of having submitted false reports were dismissed yesterday by E. C. Yellowley, enforcement director for New York State. Mr. Yellowley's activities for the day also included the issuing of a warning to proprietors of all hotels and restaurants against violations of the Volstead act upon their premises. Hereafter a second offense will mean closing up for a year, he said. During the afternoon Mr. Yellowley was in conference with representatives of the Hotel Men's Association, who pledged their cooperation in the enforcement of the law.

It is part of Mr. Yellowley's plan for tightening enforcement in New York City to hold hotel and restaurant proprietors responsible for the bootlegging activities of bell boys, waiters or any other persons in their employ. They will not be held to account, he added, for the conduct of patrons who may be detected in violations of the law, such as carrying flasks.

The dismissal of the two agents brings the total of those who have been discharged since Mr. Yellowley assumed control of the local enforcement situation last Saturday up to eight. He refused to make public the names of the men, but said he was determined to have an "air tight" organization, and that if investigation disclosed that other members of his staff were incompetent or were showing partiality to bootleggers there would be more dismissals.

His action in discharging two agents yesterday came as a result of an investigation of reports regarding applications for liquor withdrawal permits made by several druggists.

Samuel F. Rutter, Mr. Yellowley's assistant, said it had been discovered that only about one application made by drug wholesalers for the withdrawal of liquor out of twenty was legitimate. He cited the case of one wholesaler who is marketing a "tonic" who sought a permit to ship 1,000 cases to what was alleged to be a candy store. Investigation, Mr. Rutter said, disclosed that the "store" was the wholesaler's own home.

Special solicitude was shown by Mr. Yellowley's agents regarding stocks of liquor it is charged have been made ready here for sale to baseball fans attending the world series. Some of his men provided themselves with tickets and visited the Polo Grounds in an endeavor to obtain evidence of bootlegging there. It is reported, too, that stocks especially of whiskey and other liquors are being assembled here for shipment to Washington in automobiles.

It is hoped by the bootlegging fraternity that high prices can be obtained there from the thirsty who will attend the coming armament conference.

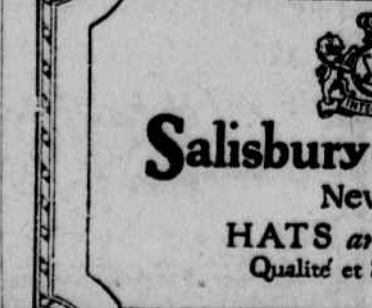

A noticeable tightening up was observed yesterday in the issuance of permits for the withdrawal of liquor from bonded warehouses. New regulations have gone into effect which, it is believed, will make it impossible for persons not legally entitled to permits to get them. Permits issued under the regime of Judge Harold L. Hart, who recently resigned the post now held by Mr. Yellowley, are being checked up systematically.

Peter Reager, one of Mr. Yellowley's agents, was nursing a wound on his right hand which he said he received in a raid Sunday night at Paul and Joe's restaurant, 62 West Ninth street, a well known Greenwich Village restaurant. Accompanied by Joseph Fasulo, another prohibition agent, he took his seat at a table and asked for liquor, he said. According to the agents, they were served, whereupon they made known their identity and a fight followed in which Reager says his thumb was bitten. Guglielmo Castellini of 117 Sullivan street and Max Greenbaum of 155 East 112th street, waiters, were arrested charged with disorderly conduct and violation of the Volstead act.

Francis A. McGurk, Assistant United States Attorney in Manhattan, was temporarily transferred to the office of United States Attorney Wallace E. U. Collins in Brooklyn yesterday to investigate the activities of alleged bootleggers said to have operated the schooner Henry L. Marshall and the motor boat Pal. It is charged that liquor was landed from these vessels at Montauk Point, L. I., and vicinity. Residents of Montauk Point, Greenport, Sag Harbor and other places are to be examined by Mr. McGurk.

"The Republican State organization is going to back up Mr. Yellowley to the hilt," said George A. Glynn, chairman of the Republican State Committee, last night. "Probably no other man in the United States is so well equipped to reorganize the director's office here and to weed out all the employees who have been acting in collusion with the bootleggers. So far as the State organization is concerned he will stay here until the office cleaned up satisfactorily."

"Then, it is generally understood, there will be appointed a business man of such standing and resources that he can afford to make a financial sacrifice to this service, one who believes thoroughly in the enforcement of the prohibition law."

GIRLS' WAGES CUT BELOW MINIMUM LIVING COST

Massachusetts Board Justifies Ruling by Financial Condition of Candy Industry—Scale Fixed at $12, but Living Is $13.50.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD, BOSTON, Oct. 10.—Cost of living, $13.50; minimum wage, $12. That's a decree handed down to-day by the State Minimum Wage Commission in regard to women and girls in the so-called "minor candies" or minor lines of confectionery and food preparations.

The decree brought back inquiries to the commission, the gist of which was: "How can a minimum wage of $12 be enough for a woman or girl whose cost of living you find to be $13.50? How about the gap of $1.50?"

A member of the commission said this minimum wage was established "on account of the financial condition of the industry. The commission came as near to it (the living cost) as it could and have the business survive at the present time."

The commission, in its decision pointed out that "the provisions of the Massachusetts law require wage boards to consider not only the amount required to maintain employees in health, but the financial condition of the occupation in question, and the effect of any increase in the minimum rate of wages paid." The commission added that Massachusetts is the only State with minimum wage legislation having this provision.

The wage board, which investigated and then recommended a minimum wage of $12, found that the cost of living for a self supporting girl in Massachusetts under present conditions is $13.50 a week. This budget is itemized thus:

Board and lodging.....$8.50
Clothing.....2.50
Laundry.....2.50
Carfare......50
Doctor and dental......50
Church......15
Self-improvement, recreation and community interest......50
Vacation......50
Reserve for emergency......50
Incidentals......25
Total.....$13.50

Which of these weekly items the wage earner is supposed to item in order to make up the $1.50 difference is not stated.

BANK BANDITS RAID 5 CITIES; GET $100,000

Four Captured in Pennsylvania After Fleeing in Car With $16,000.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD, CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—After locking a cashier, bookkeeper and four customers of the First National Bank of Dyer, Ind., in a vault to-day, five gunmen escaped with $10,000 in currency.

Cashier A. W. Stommel was in his cage when one of the bandits asked for ten $1 bills. The cashier turned to the teller to make the change and when he turned around he found himself looking into a revolver.

The bandit ordered Stommel to throw up his hands, and at the same time three other bandits entered and forced the cashier, bookkeeper and customers into the vault.

Stommel and the others released themselves a few minutes after the robbery and fled in a car. The bandits headed toward Chicago.

SPRING CITY, Pa., Oct. 10.—Four or six automobile bandits who held up the officers of the Spring City National Bank to-day and robbed the vault of between $12,000 and $16,000 in cash were captured three hours later at Phoenixville, four miles east of this place. Several thousand dollars of the money was recovered. The other bandits escaped.

The holdup occurred while directors of the bank were holding a meeting in a room in the rear of the building. Adjourning had just been taken and when Edward Brownback, president of the institution, and the other directors stepped into the main building they were confronted by two of the robbers, who ordered them to throw up their hands. Three others of the band compelled two clerks and a customer to line up with their faces to the wall and their hands in the air while they looted the vault. The customer was about to make a large deposit, which the robbers also took.

St. Louis, Oct. 10.—Robert Hardman, negro messenger of the Grand Avenue Bank, was held up to-day by two men who escaped with a satchel containing $17,650 in cash and $51,000 in non-negotiable paper. The robbery was committed on a crowded street car near the downtown quarter.

Hardman was taking the money to a bank. After obtaining the satchel the bandits compelled the conductor to stop the car and open the door. The escaped in an automobile.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10.—Bandits operating with an automobile held up Frank Ciccarelli, manager of the Niagara Laundry Company, at noon to-day and robbed him of $1,045 with which he was returning from a bank. The robbers escaped.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 10.—Two men, believed to be bank bandits, were captured after a cunning gun fight which began in Miami, Kan., and ended in Kansas City, Kan., to-day. The fight followed the robbery of the Municipal Bank of several hundred dollars. One of the captured men was shot through the head and is expected to die.

So they built a city near the Gulf of Suez and called it Onion.

But the savory little bulb proved to be more enduring than its namesake.

JEERS STIR COURT IN GRISWOLD CASE

Two Men Ejected During Testimony of Mrs. Drischman Attacking Countess.

PROPERTY MELTED AWAY

Butcher's Wife Admits Transfers to Brother and Sister Under Cross-Examination.

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 10.—The hostility of the court room crowd toward Mrs. Mary H. Drischman, chief beneficiary of the estate of Mrs. Alice Gerry Griswold and defendant in the contest started by Mrs. Griswold's daughter, the Countess Claire di Contubia di Italy, became so pronounced in Orphans Court to-day that Judge Ingersoll ordered two men spectators ejected from the room and told the women that if they did not be silent they would be put out also.

The outbreak of the spectators, the majority of them women, came when Mrs. Drischman testified that Mrs. Griswold often had told her that nothing would be left to the Countess. The crowd sneered and snickered, and Mrs. Drischman turned, leaned forward in the witness chair and spoke to the audience: "She told me that she hated the Countess and she hated her daughter that I can't repeat. If the public knew what she said, they would change their opinion. It is awful the way they are knocking me up."

Mrs. Drischman, who is the wife of a retired Atlantic City butcher, and who was in touch of the Griswold estate for five years, admitted on the stand that at one time during her management of the estate it was worth about $325,000. She also said she testified that it was now worth less than $50,000. She was asked how the estate shrank so much and replied that Mrs. Griswold meant a great deal of money. She declined to answer many questions relating to sales or transfers of property.

"The books will show," she replied. Attorney Cole, representing the Countess, had the books brought into court and asked Mrs. Drischman to consult the books and tell particularly of the method by which Miller, formerly a butcher in Drischman's shop and for fifteen years an employee of the Drischmans, acquired a piece of real estate belonging to Mrs. Griswold.

"The books will show that," said Mrs. Drischman. "Please consult the books and tell us," said Attorney Cole. Mrs. Drischman looked at the books for a moment and then said: "To start with, I don't know where to look for it. I might as well be honest. I don't know anything about books."

Under cross-examination Mrs. Drischman and other witnesses told again of the transfer of various property from the Griswold estate to Mrs. Drischman's sister and brother. The hearing was adjourned until Wednesday morning.

U. S. SEIZES FREIGHTER OWNED BY KING GEORGE

$30,000 Damages Claimed After Collision Here.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—The Havensrock, a freight steamer which the British consulate said was the personal property of King George of England, was temporarily taken in charge to-day by United States Marshal J. B. Holohan as a result of a collision damage suit for $30,000 filed against her by the Sacramento Navigation Company. Bond was furnished by the consulate and the vessel released.

The navigation company complained that the Havensrock's position at anchor in Caspersen Straits, near the mouth of the Sacramento River, caused a collision with one of a string of barges.

HAYS FAILS TO APPEAR AT OHIOANS' MEETING

Mixup on Dates Keeps Principal Speaker Away.

Postmaster-General Will Hays, through a misunderstanding about dates, was not the principal speaker last night at a meeting of the Ohio Society in the Waldorf. But the Ohioans were gratified to learn through a report of a committee that a native of their State had "invented" the modern system of mail delivery over which the energetic neighbor from Indiana presides.

Cleveland Post Office in 1862, conceived the idea of delivering mail to the more important stores and homes, the committee reported. He got the notion, it was said, from watching the anxious workmen crowd around the post office waiting for news from the "front."

HOEFFHEIMER'S HOME BURNS.

Fire, started by a plumber's open, damaged yesterday the estate of Arthur Hoeffheimer, a New York broker, at Warrenville, N. J., about $50,000. Mr. Hoeffheimer, his wife and their five children were not at home at the time. Twenty-five employees on the estate rescued the library, and fire apparatus from surrounding towns drew water from an artificial lake to pour on the blaze. The fire started in a storeroom and spread quickly.

Joseph William Briggs, a clerk in the Cleveland Post Office in 1862, conceived the idea of delivering mail to the more important stores and homes, the committee reported. He got the notion, it was said, from watching the anxious workmen crowd around the post office waiting for news from the "front."

—and this year

you will do it

You are a busy business man.

Each fall you have promised yourself and your wife that you would take life a bit more easily and keep that "fit feeling" that you brought back from your vacation at the mountains or shore.

And each fall the details of your business and private affairs have destroyed that good resolution.

But this year you will do it.

For a nominal sum, you will make The Equitable your financial secretary. You will turn over to the officers of our Trust Department the care and management of your investments and other property. And you will have time this coming year for rest and relaxation.

This week write to the Trust Department of our Uptown or Wall Street Offices; or better yet, come in and let a trust officer explain our Safe Keeping Service in detail. You will be under no obligation whatever.

A Safe Keeping Account, opened now, will save you trouble and clerical labor in preparing your 1921 Income Tax return—and without extra cost.
